APPENDIX 1

AMENDMENTS TO STANDING ADMINISTRATIVE ORDER ON CRIMINAL PRACTICE

The references in this Appendix to "section" numbers are to the sections of the Standing Order.

1) Section 5(a) (MARKING OF EXHIBITS):

Exhibits shall be pre-marked and designated as: government exhibits beginning with "101" and defendant's exhibits beginning with "501." Counsel may discuss and recommend to the court before trial a reasonable alteration to the numbering system described.

The list required under Section 5(a) of the Standing Order should be submitted not later than the morning of jury selection. Counsel for the government is urged to make reasonable efforts to reach agreement with other counsel concerning the admissibility of each intended physical exhibit. In the event such agreement is reached, such exhibits will be considered admitted at the outset.

2) Sections 5(b), 6 and 7 (OBJECTIONS TO FOUNDATIONAL ISSUES):

In the event either party files a notice of intent to contest foundation, chain-of-custody or scientific analysis, such notice shall be filed not later than 7 days before trial. Unless such items or possible exhibits are unusually voluminous, the notice shall provide a brief exhibit-by-exhibit or item-by-item description of the good faith basis for any such objection. A blanket statement saying no more than "defendant contests the foundation" is not sufficient. The statement of the basis for any objection may be ex parte if in the opinion of counsel there is a reasonable basis for doing so.

3) Section 10 (JURY INSTRUCTIONS):

Government counsel is directed to draft proposed instructions which identify the elements of the offense in the form of 6th Circuit pattern instruction 2.02, and to draft any other case-specific instruction requests. Counsel for the defense shall also draft any requested additional out-of-the-ordinary instructions.

Other instructions may be requested by either party simply by reference to pattern instruction number.

"Elements" instructions proposed by the government, and proposed special instructions by both counsel shall be circulated among counsel with a reasonable opportunity given for reaction and possible stipulation. All such drafting and reaction shall be concluded in time for submission of stipulated and requested instructions one week before the jury selection is scheduled to commence. The court intends to produce in chambers the final set of instructions.

Submit proposed instructions to chambers using CM/ECF utilities.

4) Section 11 (MOTION TIME LIMITS):

The court will generally set appropriate motion cut-off dates in a scheduling order. The stringency of those limits generally varies with the complexity of the case and the completeness of voluntary government discovery. Counsel are reminded that before filing any motion a party must seek concurrence under Local Rule 7.1. Afford at least three business days for reaction and explain in reasonable detail counsel's unsuccessful efforts. Failure to so explain will ordinarily result in a summary denial of the motion.

FINAL PRETRIAL; VOIR DIRE; JURY SELECTION AND TRIAL PRACTICES; SENTENCING ; FINAL PRETRIAL AND CHANGE-OF-PLEA DEADLINE¹

- 1) NEGOTIATED PLEA AGREEMENTS. To promote efficient scheduling, the court does not ordinarily accept a negotiated plea of guilty² after the final pretrial and change-of-plea cutoff conference date.
- 2) CHAGE OF PLEA ANTICIPATED. The defendant must be prepared to proceed with the guilty plea on the date of the Final Pretrial Conference. The court may call on the defendant to explain his guilty plea, so counsel should prepare the defendant to recite on the record a proper factual basis.
- 3) NO CHANGE OF PLEA ANTICIPATED. In the event that the defendant chooses to proceed to trial, the court will conduct a hearing guided by Lafler v. Cooper, 566 U.S. 156 (2012). The government must set forth on the record the last offered plea agreement and the government's view of the likely sentencing guidelines implications if the proffered agreement were accepted as contrasted with those anticipated after conviction at trial. The defendant must explain his or her understanding on the record and assure the court that the decision to proceed to trial was made after adequate consultation with counsel, i.e., that the decision represents the defendant's knowing and voluntary choice. A form is provided for the defendant to sign and acknowledge (and in some instances recite verbatim on the record). Counsel and the court will then conduct a Final Pretrial Conference, and discuss at least the following areas:

² A "negotiated" plea is one that contains any restrictions regarding sentencing under Rule 11, a significant reduction in the number of counts alleged, a 5K1.1 provision or any other concessions by the government that could impinge upon the court's sentencing authority or discretion. The court only rarely accepts plea agreements under Rule 11(c)(1)(C), but most often is presented with—and accepts—agreements under Rule 11(c)(1)(B) that include non-binding sentencing recommendations; the court also generally accepts plea agreements that contemplate well-founded 5K1.1 departures. Although 11(c)(1)(B) sentencing recommendations are non-binding, the court nonetheless gives them careful consideration, and substantial weight.

- a) Evidence stipulations or problems
- b) Instruction stipulations or problems
- c) unresolved motions
- d) Number of witnesses and estimated time for case presentation
- e) Estimated time for opening statements
- f) Understanding of juror-proposed question procedure

4) VOIR DIRE. It is the court's practice to conduct voir dire questioning of the jury panel. Counsel must submit any questions they may wish to request in writing to the court not later than the end of the business day three days before jury selection is scheduled to commence. Question requests submitted on the morning of trial will generally not be considered by the court.

5) JURY SELECTION METHOD: JURY TRIAL PRACTICES

The court will use a “struck jury” system for jury selection. A detailed written description of this method is available from chambers and on the Court’s website. Ordinarily the court will select twelve regular and two alternate jurors. Principal peremptory challenges must be used to select the twelve, and the additional peremptory used separately to select the alternates. Alternate jurors are ordinarily told that they are alternates.

At trial, the court generally gives to the jury a copy of the indictment as a guide to the case the government is required to prove. Therefore, counsel for the government ordinarily produces a "sanitized" version of the indictment redacted of all language referring to the Grand Jury and any other irrelevant or potentially prejudicial matter.

The jury will be allowed to take notes. The jury will ordinarily be allowed to submit written proposed clarification questions of witnesses at the conclusion of the testimony. Any such questions will be reviewed by the court and counsel out of the hearing of the jury, with counsel having the opportunity to object to the substance of the question. The court then asks the question on behalf of the juror, and counsel are given an opportunity for pertinent follow-up questions. Caution is exercised during this process, and the court specifically instructs the jury in advance on these issues. See the court's website for further specifics. Any objection to this procedure or suggestions for alteration must be stated in advance of trial.

6) SENTENCING PROCEDURES

Upon conviction at trial or after a plea change, a presentence report will be prepared and circulated; counsel will respond pursuant to the Federal Rules and the Local Rules of this court. The procedures to be used in preparation for sentencing will be set forth in a separate order.

DEPARTURES. A motion for a departure from the calculated range based upon Sentencing Guidelines factors must be briefed and stated in writing, to be filed fourteen days before sentencing. Provide a copy to the Probation Officer. A party opposing the departure must file a response seven days before sentencing. A decision on a departure motion will ordinarily be announced before sentencing. Argument may be invited by the court in some cases.

VARIANCES. Requests for sentencing variances based upon 28 U.S.C. § 3553(a) factors are closely related to the substance of sentencing allocution. To assist the court, the basis for proposed sentencing variances should be set forth in a motion filed in combination with a motion for departure, supra.

A separate sentencing memorandum is optional, but often helpful, and should be filed not fewer than seven days before sentencing if at all. Do not simply cut and paste departure or variance arguments.

Unless otherwise permitted for reasonable cause, allocution should not exceed eight minutes for defendant's counsel, five minutes for defendant and eight minutes for government counsel.
